within reaching distance of one of his two goals-nationwide bargaining for the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

A referendum in 500 local unions has disclosed strong support for the idea. The opposition of a few strong locals in New York and San Francisco is not considered consequential.

The Teamster president's other goal is a federation of all transport workers-railroaders, truckers, aviation workers, sailors and all divisions of freight and cargo handlers. That goal is still a considerable distance away, though not nearly so far away as a nationwide contract seemed to be only a few years ago.

A CURIOUS situation now confronts the government of the United States and its people, including those who are organized in unions. Everybody would be under the guns of the kind of power James R. Hoffa is gathering into his hands.

Yet, nothing can be done to stop him before it happens. No machinery exists to regularize nationwise bargaining in the trucking industry, as it does in the railroad industry.

A SHOWDOWN would pit the government against the Teamsters and against one of its citizens personally James Hoffa. But despite the fact everybody believes this is what the Teamster president intends to bring about and that it would require the government to keep him from doing it, nothing can be done.

Mr. Hoffa and his union are immune to laws that would keep corporations, companies and other private individuals from doing the same thing.

It is indeed a curious situation-and it gets curiouser as Mr. Hoffa moves ever closer to his goal of being able to stop If he is successful and uses the power everything that moves-the unionist eventually to paralyze commerce moving Joshua who someday may command the

I do have a personal feeling about people high regard, though living elsewhere. They are fighting-at least many of them seem to be fighting-to keep the Great Swamp from being made into a superairport for New York

They appear to be winning the fight. For once, the bulldozer faction is being set back on its collective haunches.

I approve of this. I have nothing against bulldozing on general principles, but on specific principles I think we need to get up in arms about the idea that mechanical monsters and their operators have some God-given right to go wherever they want

Neither they nor automobiles are entitled to go where people do not want them to be. The same goes for airplanes, shopping centers and anything else that impings on the rights of human beings

The Great Swamp in New Jersey is close, only 25 miles away.

It would be convenient for the city to who live in it and others who hold it in have another airport in close proximity. It would be convenient for the airlines and other interests.

But if it would be inconvenient for the inhabitants of Morris County, that settles it. They come first.

There should be no muttering about eminent domain, either,

Eminent domain must be reserved for things that add to the welfare and pleasure of all, not that serve the convenience and profit of a few.

If eminent domain gives earth movers, motor vehicles and planes the status of sacred cows in India, the people will make short shrift of it. Its purpose is to protect them, not to protect jut-jawed minorities seeking a license to ride roughshod over human rights.

NEW JERSEY'S Great Swamp is a refuge for wild life.

It is one of the last places in the neighborhood of New York City where beauty hasn't been crunched out by dynamiters, excavators, pile drivers, tower builders, exploiters, thugs, quick-dollar boys, picketeers, street rioters, mounted cops, muggers, chislers and political racketeers.

Let us, then, all cheer for the last-ditch fight to preserve it. If we don't win a few of these fights pretty soon, there will

Yet Amtorg has been permitted to operate freely in the United States for almost 40 years. It's supposed to be the purchasing agent for 25 Soviet Today what Amtorg actually buys from us is worth a pittance. A typical year was 1961 when it applied for 29 export licenses for material valued at $214,834. For these few pence Amtorg is permitted the freedom of the U.S. industrial system-a freedom U.S. businessmen can't approach in the U.S.-

Frequently, the officials of American firms which has been visited would be advised by Amtorg that Moscow would have to approve the order-and that Mowcow would have to approve the order-and that blueprints would be necessary. And when there actually was an order, Amtorg would insist on blueprints, documents and data to which it was not entitled according to normal business practices.

Amtorg officials would always insist on a clause in the contract which gave the Soviets the right to inspect all of the merchandise before it was shipped to Russia. This brought the Amtorg operatives into the heart of the plant. 3

Another device was "to gain the confidence of some employe in a plant which had a contract with the Russian government and through this employe to obtain blueprints which were copied in the Amtorg office and the copies forwarded to Russia." Yet, though all this has been known over the years, Amtorg still operates out of the 19th

Rockefeller's Decision

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has everything to gain and nothing to lose by declaring himself a candidate for the Republican nomina tion.

Whether or not the New York governor is successful in getting t h e nomination in 1964, the lessons of national politics would seem to indicate that David Lawrence anyone prominent enough to try for the nomination in 1964 is likely to try again in 1968 if his own party should lose.

There's another reason why Mr. Rockefeller probably has decided to make an active campaign irrespective of whether or not he wins.

It's that for several months now the Rockefeller candidacy has been frowned upon by many women voters. Previously, he was easily the front runner. The explanation of his drop in populrith usually given is the fact that the New York governor was divorced and then almost immediately afterward remarried. This occasioned widespread comment, and political analysts have referred to the expressions of disapproval noted in previous political campaigns when one of the candidates happened to be a divorced

In this instance, however, the adverse criticism of many women voters has centered not only on the divorce and remarriage aspects but on the legal arrangements for divided custody of the young children involved.

WHAT WAS the New York governor to do? Should he accept any such judgment on his personal affairs and abandon national politics, or should he express himself unequivocally on public questions and issues and let the American people judge whether he is capable enough to be their president, thus subordinating personal isefeller will have made an effective exposition. Time often heals many a political ailment.

While Mr. Rockefeller's strategy therefore can be analyzed as logical from his own standpoint, the bigegst error he has made - one which may really cost him the nomination in 1964 - is the position he has taken on public issues.

He leans toward the so-called "liberal" side, and that doesn't happen to be the majority sentiment in the Republican party today.

HE WOULD be forgiven for even this by some voters, but, unfortunately, he recently said. in effect, that, unless Sen. Gold. water or any other aspirant is willing to run on a platform that suits the New York governor, he may not support the national ticket.

This has not been spelled out explicitly, but many observers have certainly gotten the impression that the New York governor wants the nominee and the Republican platform to conform to his views or he will bolt the ticket.

He hasn't used the word "bolt," but the implication is there. Unless it is cleared up, many Republicans will assume that the New York governor is geting ready to split the Republican party, which, of course, as in 1912, would merely result in an overwhelming electoral vote for the Democratic presidential nominee.

The voters commend a man who stands on principle, but they don't like to see one of the leaders of a party assume what appears to some to be an all-ornothing attitude. If the course is persisted in and the Republicans lose, it could doom a Rockefeller candidacy in 1968, as he would then be regarded as the man who wrecked the Republican party's chances and made easy the reelection of John F. Kennedy.

THEORETICALLY, the Republican party, in choosing a nominee and adopting a platform, operates on a representative basis. If the national party convention makes a decision, it is customary for defeated aspirants to accept the ed personal aspects of the situa- verdict in good sportsmanship and campaign for the successful nominee. Hoover Unit Eyes Treasurer's Office

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) Changes in operations of the State Treasurer's Office would save $1.5 million a year, the Little Hoover Commission said today

The report by a group of industrial management experts was among those based on a searching survey of governmental operations.

Commission members limited their study to internal tax collection controls by the Treasurer's Office. The controls were termed adequate.

Commissioners recommended prompt refund of verified tax overpayments and an end to use of abatement certificates that Graham on television's "The now can be used only to pay Eleventh Hour" series. future taxes credited to the general fund

For the past 20 years, Ohio has maintained inactive interest earning accounts in various banks at exactly $70 million, yielding a "very satisfactory" return of about 3.92 per cent.

The commission said the treasurer should have authority to shift funds for maximum yield, consistent with reasonable safety. The two-year period for deposit of inactive funds should be changed to a one-year period, the commission added.

Another proposed change would permit the treasurer to make active deposits of state funds in banks throughout the state, instead of in banks with offices in Columbus as now required, the report said.

Active deposits last July stood at $134 million, an amount termed excessive by the commission. A lesser amount would free more public funds for investments to increase state income,

Like it, Jane?

They must have designed new GAS Ranges for people like us.

All those modern work-saving, time-saving features! They know that with three active children, shopping, PTA and Girl Scouts, every minute is precious. My new Gas Range saves many minutes even hours every week. This Burner-with-a-Brain makes all my pans automatic. Things never stick or boil over, and I don't have to watch them. When there's an afternoon meeting to attend, I can cook ahead of time. The Keep-Warm Oven cooks automatically then turns itself down to hold dinner at a ready-to-serve temperature, even if I'm late getting home. And wait till my family tastes the steak tonight. Real "steak house" flavor from that smokeless broiler.

Yes, they must have read our minds when they designed the new Gas Ranges.

We're sure you'll agree, too, when you see all the beautiful new Gas Ranges at your Gas Appliance Dealer's. Why not stop in tomorrow?

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

One of my customers who enjoys our chicken dinners has told me I should mention our new machine which we are now using to fry our chickens with. In just eight minutes we can have a chicken dinner ready for the table. Not only does this machine do a fast job, it also does a good job. People tell me our chicken is so very good.

You should try one soon. The price is only 97c.
